

USE THESE CARDS WITH A CLASSROOM SIZE SPIDER CHART. CUT THE BORDERS AS NEEDED TO FIT THE CHART; Be sure to run this sheet off and check spacing

Cerebratulus lacteus Anas rubripes

Euspira triseriata Black Duck

Northern Moon snail Rock Crab

Snips off the siphons of larger clams
and eats small clams that are burrowed shallowly in the flat

A gastropod that preys on clams in a similar way as the Northern Moon snail

Mummichog

Bloodworm

Carcinus maenas

Gastropod (a snail or related mollusk*) that drills a hole near the umbo area of the clam shell

Sandworm

Creamy reddish/pink worm which preys on small clams and has a bite that is painful to humans; its color may account for its name

Green Crab

A crab with nine marginal teeth on the carapace of its shell ; known as Maine crab, Atlantic crab, peeky toe crab

Euspira heros

*Glycera
dibranchiata*

Fundulus heteroclitus	Crangon septemspinosa
Cancer irroratus <hr/>	Milky ribbon worm
Neanthes virens	Hardy fish that eats clams measuring < 20mm

Notorious crustacean; its population seems to flourish in warmer water ;
clam needs to be about 1 ½” to be safe from it

Worm that can grow to a great length; eats mostly seaweed, but will eat clams $\leq 3\text{mm}$.

large edible crustacean with 5 pairs of legs, the first set being very large and clawlike compared to the other pairs

Homarus americanus

Everts its proboscis
into the clam's
siphon and eats it from the inside out

Spotted Moon Snail

American,
Northern or Maine Lobster